

I am requesting that the FCC not make any regulation that would reduce the effect of the Telephone Privacy Law of Indiana.

By signing up for the Indiana law's protection, we have changed from receiving 3 to 5 unsolicited phone calls each day about buying various products to almost no calls now.

This has removed a major annoyance during the day and expecially during meals.

To repeat, I think the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law was a great improvement, and I do not want the FCC or any other agency to replace it with a less strict law or regulation.
